

These all come back to the essential questions: What is culture? How is our culture similar to and different from others around the world?

And the driving question: Why is one's culture important to one's lives?

